खेल-कूद में ना सिर्फ मेडल बल्कि दुसरे की सहायता करना भी महत्वपूर्ण है।

Lesson summary

The poem describes a great event of hundred meters running race. The race was for disabled or differently abled people. It was at the Special Olympics. It was the final race. The competitors running the race and spectators – those who were watching were eagerly waiting. Everyone was excited.

The race began with the gunshot. One of the nine participants stumbled and tripped. He fell on the track at the starting point. He was hurt and was in pain. Other eight participants saw him. They turned back to help him. They did not run to the finish line to win. They helped the little one get up. They all started walking towards the finish line holding one another's hands. They were all declared winners. They got a standing ovation – claps of appreciation for their great sportsman spirit.
