Lesson summary

Joan of Arc was a poor, fearless and young French girl. She was a farmer's daughter. France and England were fighting for more than hundred years. In those days, women were not allowed to be in the army. Joan was the girl who led the French army during this war. She was just 18. But she was blessed with some special powers. She wanted to do something for her country. So she offered her help to the French army.

Robert, the captain made fun of her. He was not ready to take her help. But later he agreed. He gave her a horse, soldiers and all help to lead the army.
