Lesson summary

This is a story about a young boy, Raja. He liked to play with snakes and bees. One day, while trying to catch a bee, it stung his finger. His grandparents thought it was a snake bite. They took him to a man, who they thought could cure the snake bite. The boy wanted to tell the man that it was a bee sting and not a snake bite. But he was told to keep quiet. The man put some water in a pot. He started chanting some mantras. By then, Raja's finger had stopped hurting. The man said that this happened because of his magic mantra. The grandparents thanked the man. They also sent him some gifts as a reward for curing Raja.
